

Call for nominations

2023 MIT Prize for Open Data

Winners receive $2,500 and an invitation to present their project at the “Open Data at MIT” event on October 24.

We’re seeking nominations for projects by MIT researchers that:

- created new open data
- creatively used existing open data
- built technologies that advance use or dissemination of open data
- contained novel theorizing about open data, e.g., with respect to social and ethical responsibility

Nominations due September 15, 5pm
Submit at libraries.mit.edu/opendata

Co-sponsored by

MIT
Libraries